 through training, education and tactical excellence

Dear Nathan D Lynch,

Thank you for being a loyal NTOA Member!

In 2015, the NTOA was diligent in its support of the law enforcement profession by developing new programs, providing better access to member resources and growing our membership.

NTOA working for you in 2015:

- The NTOA awarded $2,500 each to six children of our members as winners of the James Torkar Educational Scholarship. Each winner demonstrated outstanding scholastic achievement and service to their communities.
- The NTOA released an updated SWAT Standard which serves as an efficient, core set of concepts and principles that improve standardization within the profession of tactical law enforcement services.
- Annual Tactical Conference - More than 800 students and 200 vendors attended. Some of the best instructors and speakers in the field provided contemporary and timely training and debriefs. Fifteen conference scholarships were awarded to NTOA members.
- Annual CNT Conference - 250 students attended four days of informative presentations and debriefs. We hosted a record number of exhibitors at our 2015 vendor show.
- The NTOA was asked to offer its expertise on Capitol Hill regarding SWAT-related issues. The President issued Executive Order 13688, which places limits on certain military equipment for use by law enforcement and which requires more training and transparency relative to the acquisition and use of the equipment. NTOA has been actively involved in these discussions and the legislative proposals that effect our members!
